A number of negro voters who were challenged last Saturday by anti-soloon managers, because thoy could not read and write, were given a hearing last night and one of them read the Constitution in English and then offered to read it in French or Latin. He proves to be a professor in Shaw University, Reports from the various tobacco sections of the State are to the effect that the curng is progressing exceptionally well. The housing is almost completed, though there is still some in the fields which might be injured by an early frost.

Postmaster Balley, of the Raleigh posteffice, who is paymaster for all rural free delivery routes in this State, has received notice of eleven new routes added during September. This makes even four hundred routes in operation in North Carolina.

WRECK VICTIMS BURIED.

The remains of the two men-Firemen J. W. Hodge and Flagman J. S. Moody, who lost their lives in the wreck near Danville last Sunday, have been brought to Raleigh and deposited in their respective family burying grounds near here. The funeral of Hodge was with military honors, he having been a member of honors, he having been a member of Raieigh Light Infantry.

Sheriff Crawford, of Martin county, brought a thirteen-year-old negro boy here this morning to serve twenty-five years in the penitentiary for aron. He is charged to have burned not less than $10,000 worth of property and is the worst boy ever known in the State, says the Sheriff.

The Secretary of State chartered the Fairview Educational and Improvement Company, of Fairview, Moore county $25,000 capital to conduct a school and deal in real estate.

ENGINEERS RESIGN

Many Wrecks Make Them Fearful of Their Lives.

Their Lives.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

8ALISBURY, N. C., Sept. 80.—The numerous wrecks on the Southern Railway are making a serious impression on the engineers and other employes of the road, as a result of which a number arc known to have resigned their positions. Two men running out from Spencer went to the bank at which they do business yesterday and drew what, money they had, saying they were going to quit the road while alive and go to farming. They said they proposed to invest their money in stock and farming implements; that running on the railroad has gotten to be too serious a problem for them.

A fireman on the Southern caused trouble Saturday night by getting drunk while on duty. The name of the young man is Tod King, and his run has been between Spencer and Greenville, S. C. He became intoxicated after leaving Charlotte Saturday afternoon, and falled to keep steam in his erigine. The engineer was compelled to stop before reaching Salisbury and "blow up," at which time he remonstrated with King for his conduct. Upon reaching this place King assaulted the engineer, in-licting severs wounds.

Church Corner Stone Laid. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SALISBURY, N. C., September 20.— State Treasurer B. R. Lacy was here today for the purpose of officialing at the corner-stone laying of the Presbyterian Church at Spencer. The ceremonies were held at 2 o'clock P. M. under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of the Masonic fraternity, Mr. Lacy acting as grand master. He also delivered the address, which was very appropriate and impressive.

Fulton Lodge, No. 99, A. F. and A. M. of Salisbury, attended in a body, accompanied by the Balisbury Band, which furnished music for the occasion. The lodge went to Spencer in a special train, which was furnished by the Bouthern Railway. The State Treasurer also made a gospel address to several hundred mechanics at the Southern shops at Spencer during the noon hour, the same being under the auspices of the Spencer Young Men's Christian Association.

suffering of others, know that Rheumatism is torture, and that it is rightly called "The King of Pain."

All do notsufferalike. Some are suddenly seized with the most excruciating pains, and it seems every muscle and joint in the body was being torn asunder. Others feel only occasional slight pains for weeks or months, when a sudden change in the weather or exposure to damp, chilly winds or night air brings on a fierce attack, lasting for days perhaps, and leaving the patient with a weakened constitution or crippled and deformed for all time.

An acid, polluted condition of the blood is the cause of every form and variety of Rheumatism, Muscular, Articular, Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory and Sciatic, and the blood must be purged and purified before there is an end to your aches and pains. External applications, the use of liniments and plasters, do much toward temporary relief, but such treatment does not reach the real cause or cleanse the diseased blood; but S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics, does cure Rheumatism by antidoting and neutralizing the poisonous acids and building up the weak and sluggish blood. It is safe and reliable in all forms of Rheumatism. It makes the old acid blood rich, and the pain-tortured muscles and joints are relieved, the shattered nerves are made strong, and the entiresystem is invigorated and toned up by the use of this great vegetable remedy.

If you have Rheumatism, write us, and our physicians will furnish without charge any information desired, and we will mail free our book on Rheumatism.

In this work Henry Fink, now chairman of the board of directors, and the veteran president, gave to Mr. John-son his advice and to some extent stepped back into the harness of the son his advice and to some extensisteped back into the harness of the presidency.

This has from time to time given rise to erroneous reports that Mr. Fink would again accept the presidency.

Mr. Johnson was on trial in the high executive position, and has proven his ability to the satisfaction of the controlling interests in the road, and has now been placed on the honor list to receive his reward.

In railroad circles Mr. Johnson is regarded as one of the most efficient operating officials in the country. The strides forward which have been made by the Norfolk and Western since the Pennsylvania obtained control of the road are attributed largely to the success of Mr. Johnson in obtaining traffic.

F. J. Kimball, whom Mr. Johnson will succeed, died on July 27th. In a tribute to Mr. Kimball in the last annual report

Captain Wise Here.

Captain John S. Wise, of New York, was in the city yesterday from early in the morning until the afternoon. He came to the city to meet his daughter, Mrs. J. P. Barney, the wife of Lieutenant Barney, United States army, who, with her husband, was at Murphy's Hotel. Lieutenant and Mrs. Barney were in the city on their way from Meadowille, Va., to Fort Riley, Kan., whither the officer has been ordered, While in the city Captain Wise called at the postoffice to pay his respects to Assistant Postmaster Grubbs, but did not visit the offices on the upper floor of the building. He did not discuss the suffrage cases, which will come up this month in the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia.

(By Associated Press.)
BLACKSTONE, VA., Sept. 30.—The official returns from all the predicts in this (Nottoway) county of the primary election for member of the Legislature from this district of Nottoway and Amelia give H. B. Lee, of this county, a majority of 284 over J. W. Fowlkes, of Amelia.

Lee carried every precinct in this county by majorities ranging from 3 to 114. Nothing official has been heard from Amelia, but from the best information obtainable, Fowlkes has carried that county by about 200. This would give the nomination to Lee by 84 majority. The total vote of this county was 644—of the county w years have been of great fluctuations in prices. The market is in a more disordered condition at present than in a long time. Governor Tyler and other cattle-growers have told me that they were never more uncertain as to the future of the market, and this makes buying specially difficult. A half cent too much paid for the two-year-olds now may meen their sale next year at a loss.

too much paid for the two-year-olds now may mean their sale next year at a loss.

Governor Tyler took two of the young ladies of the household and myself last week over to Bellehampton, his farm, which is ten miles from his home at East Radford. It was an ideal September day, and the drive over the splendid country roads, through the magnificent blue grass farms, winding in and out among the hills, fat cattle on every hand cropping the grass that makes the finest beef in the world, the Governor says, was an experience entirely new, and wholly delightful. As may be imagined, the prevailing topic was cattle-raising in all its phases, but there was a more than passing discussion of politics, and many a humorous story, told in the Governor's inimitable style, will linger in memory as reminders of the drive. But I am not going to disgress to tell any of the stories told, or the cattle will be crowded out. And Governor Tyler is always ready to make anything give place to cattle, whether it be politics or what not.

The Governor owns 1,100 acres in the neighborhood of the old home at Bellehampton. The present state was originally several different farms, which have been purchased at different times. It is one of the best in the county of Pulaski, and it will ever be a mystery to many why a man who owned such a domain as this should have ever been willing to leave it even for a short season to accept public office, even the highest in the gift of the people of his State. The old home at Bellehampton is a fine old house, built by the Governor sgrandfather in 1837. The farm, of farms, have been managed by Governor Tyler's eldest son, Edward, and many beside the father say the son is the batter farmer.

of seven on what the Governor calls the Cecil Farm, which is on the road to Bellehampton. We drove through a gate opening from the main road, and out through the wood to the top of a high hill. The luxuriant bluegrass came up to the hubs of the trap. Some distance along the hill, we came upon the cattle iying in the sunshine which felt good to man and beast, with the air chilled with the breath of the first frost. I shall never forget the impression made upon me as the cattle rose slowly to their feet and stared at us in mild and inquiring surprise as we drove up. I was not used to such cattle. Several of those in that herd have been shipped since and were found to weigh nearly sixteen hundred pounds. A sixteen hundred pounds at large as an elephant, but he is a mighty big animal to the eyes of a man who is not used to that kind of cattle and these made me open my eyes. It is the boast of some of the cattle growers of the Southwest, that they furnish royalty lits beef and if a king is any better than anybody else it seemed to me as I acknowledged my introduction to the fat cattle of the Virginia bluegrass region that their majesties could not ask any finer meat than could be supplied from the splendid specimens before me. So fat they would scarcely waddle through the grass, so fat they would blow like porpoises upon running fifty yards, so much fatter than the cattle to which I had been accustomed that at first I stared and then laughed as men laugh when they see a boy weighing as much as a fat man.

BELLEHAMPTON.

And then we drove on to Bellehampton, where Ed. Tyler lives alone, boarded by one of the tenants on the place. We wondered through the old house, which was the home of the family for so many years, and then we brought up the milk from the springhouse and ate the lunch which Mrs. Tyler had made us bring with us. Then we all went out on the porch' in the sunshine, and the Governor continued to talk cattle, varying it occasionally with tender reminiscences of "he old place, at which his boyhood and many wards found, a wad of grass stuffed into wards found, a wad of grass stuffed into the wound in the side to stop the bleeding.

And then Edward came in from the field where the hands had been threshing wheat, and there was much more talk of farm topics. On the return trip we drove out to see another fine herd near the road, and to admire the beautifully rolling fields of that section of the plantation. Yet another herd was visited on the way home, but none of them appeared to me so beautiful as those which I saw first, and the same may be said of those which I have seen since, and I have seen many in the past two or three days.

A DREAM.

And then the drive home, the Governor holding the reins. The roads of Pulaski are the best I have encountered in Virginia. As we skimmed along the hard and smooth highway the sun, almost ready to go to rest, had disappeared behind the higher hills, and the valleys were choked up with the purple shadows of evening. Tired farm hands leys were choked up with the purple shadows of evening. Tired farm hands were coming in from work, and even the hillsides, ready to lie down and rest until the sun should come again. And it came over me that I would sigh for this beautiful country when I was back in the city, and I dreamed of being the owner of one of these blue-grass farms one day and living always in the country, where it is easy for a man to be good, and in this one easy to be rich. But then I reflected that such lands as these sell for $40 an acre. for $40 an acre.

And I woke up.
